To the parties above,

The St. Johns County Board of County Commissioners recognizes the property owner and additional stakeholder's efforts to preserve and promote the cultural resources of St. Johns County by relocating and restoring the Canright House.

The Canright House is located at 5480 Atlantic View and is associated with the National and St. Augustine Civil Rights Movement of 1963-1964 and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. The house's relocation or, alternatively, placing significant historic elements from the house into a museum, will enhance the interpretation of civil rights history in St. Johns County and promote the value that the County places in preserving its cultural resources.

Additionally, St. Johns County Land Development Code section 3.01.00 reads, "the cultural resources of St. Johns County are important community assets that enrich the lives of citizens and visitors alike" and that "such significant cultural resources should, to the extent possible, be maintained and protected in order to benefit the educational, cultural, and economic, and general welfare of the public."

Sincerely,

Mr. Henry Dean, Chair
Board of County Commissioners
St. Johns County, FL
